Timing was everything this year as Meredith was faced with many new challenges and found that the College was ready. New staff and faculty members appeared, activity bustled around a presidential visit, new parking lots were provided for students as well as a new art building. Meredith took it all in stride because, this year, everyone was timing it right!

A Timely Treat For Art Students

Timing was especially crucial for the art department this year as they opened the new Gody-Hamerick Art Center at the beginning of the spring semester.

In the past, the art department had been scattered all over the lake side of campus. Students and faculty had to carry heavy supplies and equipment from one building to another for consecutive classes. Many people had wanted a single location (or home) for the department.

When the Board of Trustees approved the idea, the students and the professors were asked to contribute suggestions to improve the new center over the old places. Just in time for the spring semester, the building was completed and was almost like a belated Christmas present for the people who had waited so long to move in.

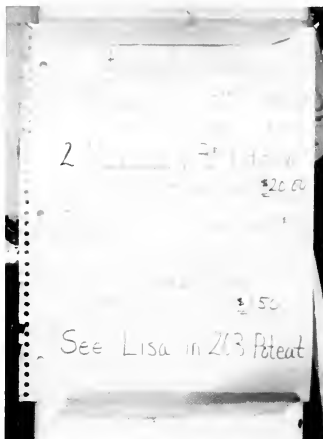

In April, the first student art exhibition was held in the new gallery. It showed the pride of the department in their new home, their students, and themselves. It had all come together finally and the timing was great!

Fall . . .

Students enjoyed many activities during the fall. This was a time when freshmen and transfers came, when books were put up for sale and when students got to hear Jimmy Carter speak on peace. Student leaders got to work after the workshop they had before school began. SGA tried to get students to register to vote, and Rhoda Sowers came back for a visit and to talk with Chandy Christian, our present Director of Student Activities. The fall was full of surprises that came at a good time.

It went on and on . . .

Weather knows no time but conveniently gave students a break in February when the snow came. Most students were happy for the chance to play in the snow rather than having to go to class. Some girls with jobs and internships off campus worried that they would not be able to leave. They were trapped for at least two days, but so was the rest of Raleigh. The snow was slowly melting when we got another dose on the Friday of Spring Break. Students did not think this snow was as timely or as enjoyable as the first one.

Timing was important this year as students made time to learn and to enjoy the new and expanding opportunities on campus.

WE GRADUATED AND WENT TO HEAVEN

What do we do? Where do we go? When? How? These were just a few questions 386 disoriented freshmen were asking during orientation on August 19, 1986. It was a new beginning for all — a scary, yet exciting adventure.

As freshmen first arrived at Meredith, they received a friendly greeting along with a balloon and important information materials. After parking the car in the mud and registering, a few of the fortunate students grabbed a tram to transport their luggage to the dorms. After numerous trips to carry in all the "stuff" the goodbyes were said to family and friends, and students were ready to settle into their new existence as Angels.

Most freshmen found themselves feeling more like headless chickens instead of Angels during orientation week. A pouring rain caused the only break in daily activities. As an introduction to Meredith, MCA, MEA and SGA performed a variation from the "Wizard of Oz." Another night, Gene Cotton gave a concert for the entire campus in Jones Chapel. Students found his gentle manner and easy-listening songs relaxing. For many freshmen, the talent show highlighted the week. There they enjoyed skits and performances by their fellow classmates.

In addition to the fun activities and placement tests, daily advising sessions filled the schedules. Freshmen quickly identified registration as a survival test and found that buying books took a lot of patience and left little money. Tradition called and new students dressed formally to be introduced to President John Weems and to tour his home on the Sunday before classes began. The Class of 1990 had become a true part of the Meredith community the previous night when they took the honor pledge in a meaningful candlelight ceremony. Their halos were in place.

When the hectic week of orientation drew to a close, memorable activities such as making new friends remained in many minds. The Class of 1990 experienced a good introduction to "heaven" on earth.

ELECTIONS

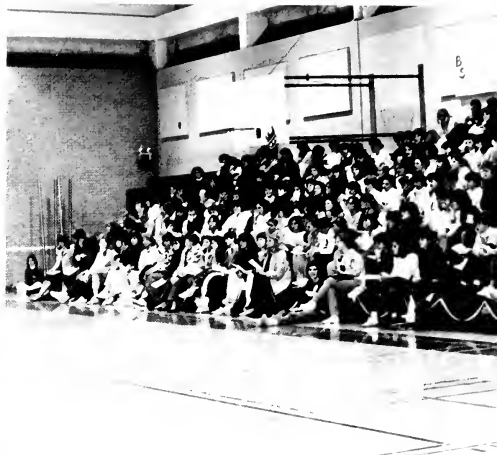

Elections '87 was officially underway as Weatherspoon Gym filled with a concerned student body. As the gym settled down, the first slate candidates prepared to give their speeches and the night became more intense. After listening closely to the candidates, the voters began determining their favorites.

Proceeding the first slate voting and runoffs, second and third slates commenced. More intense moments came into existence as the candidates from the slates worked diligently preparing and posting flyers as they planned their campaign strategy.

It is difficult to decide who will be the best person for each position. There are various aspects to take into account. Such things ranging from the candidates qualifications to their special interests have to be considered. And if that is not enough, there are flyers everywhere trying to persuade everyone to vote for the Best, but everybody claims to be just that. What is a poor voter to do? Just weigh each candidate making a mature, responsible decision — wasn't so hard, was it?

the night away

What makes the Kerr Scott building exciting on a Saturday night? Dancing with A Spark of Moonlight, of course! As the night of January 31, 1987 neared, excitement mounted on Meredith College's campus. When the big night finally arrived, girls and their dates made the most of it, dancing away the night with The Voltage Brothers. The darkened room, illumined by disco lights, was enhanced by overhanging moons and stars, while trees of balloons added just the right touch. It was indeed an enchanting evening.

In the spring, freshmen and sophomores went Plum Krozy at their semi-formal held at the Raleigh Inn. Dancing among purple and white streamers to the music of the Waller Family, couples especially remembered when confetti and balloons were dropped from the ceiling at midnight. A few miles away at the Hilton, juniors and seniors jammed to the music of Mirrors. For them, the magic night was definitely A Black Tie Affair.

No matter the season or the location, Meredith Angels knew how to enjoy a great event. Thoughts of dancing the nights away always brought enchanting dreams.

MEREDITH PERFORMS

The Meredith Performs 1986-87 season was kicked off spectacularly in November with a high-stepping musical, The Boyfriend. Melissa Brooks gave a delightful performance as Polly, the prep-school girl reduced to inventing boyfriends. Eventually, as in all good musicals, Polly got her guy while dancing the Charleston and singing her heart out.

Meredith College's Chorale, under the direction of Jim Powers, launched the Christmas season by performing along with the Meredith Chorus and the Hand Bell Choir. January brought Robert Small to campus for a strong and innovative dance performance. Combining both skill and wit, Mr. Small educated and entertained his audience.

Josephine, the Mouse Singer, performed in February, gave Jennifer Hubbard her last chance to shine on the Angel stage. She radiated in her portrayal of the title character and bemused audiences of all ages.

Closing the season, the Meredith Dance Theater performed numbers choreographed by Robert Small. He allowed creativity, yet kept the beauty of dance in the numbers.

The Meredith Performs season succeeded in providing intellectual stimulation as well as fun and enjoyment. In the words of the season's house manager, Ameila Stinson, "The season was well attended and greatly appreciated this year."

Abroadening Of Knowledge

Have you ever wished to study in Europe? Well, for ten weeks every summer, thirty to forty Meredith students get an opportunity to do just that. In the summer of 1986, Dr. Roger Crook, Dr. Lynch and Dr. Thomas Parramore accompanied the students and taught such diverse subjects as religion and art. Students were allowed to take up to twelve credit hours, but most took nine. They spent mornings in class, but afternoons and weekends were free. Once a week Dr. Crook organized an excursion, and the students went on their own on the weekends. The first five weeks were spent in Switzerland, and students studied in England during the last five weeks. Classes were taught just as they would be at Meredith, and students were responsible for all normal classwork and homework. If you want to broaden your horizons with Meredith Abroad, take Dr. Crook's advice, and "By all means, go!"

WOMEN ONLY

Ordering pizza . . . Playing music . . .
Gathering in the parlor to watch TV . . .
Shouting to a friend down the hall . . .
Borrowing clothes from a neighbor . . .
Smelling the aroma of fresh-baked cookies drifting from the kitchenette . . . Yelling, "Man on the hall!" . . . And, most definitely, popping popcorn.

These were just a few of the many sights, sounds and experiences that accompanied living in a dorm. As most resident students would agree, dorm life was an integral part of the entire college experience. Not only was it an easy way to meet new and various people, but it also provided an exciting aspect of campus life.
It was not often that one has the experience of hearing stampeding feet running to the breezeways in order to watch a naked guy being untied from the courtyard fountain.

Although dorm life was not always exciting, it did provide students with the opportunity to learn how to cooperate and coexist peaceably together. Sometimes a neighbor would have to be asked to turn her music down just a little lower or a suite-mate would need to be reminded to clean the bathroom, but with work, a peaceable way of life was possible.

During the year, individual hall or dorm activities were planned to promote unity and team spirit. Hall intramurals took place throughout the year, and hall meetings were required every Monday.
Very often though, students on a hall would gather in the parlor to watch a movie, do homework and eat. One hall, second Vann, often gathered to exercise in the parlor.

Though it had its ups and downs, as a whole, dorm life was enjoyable. It provided an open opportunity for making new friends, generating good conversation, and of course, funtimes!

CORNHUSKIN' 86

Have you ever wondered how and when Cornhuskin' originated? If so, then you need to go Back to the Future in order to understand how you were able to Fly High in the Danger Zone. We'll get in our time machine now, and go back a few years to the first Cornhuskin'.

On Tuesday, October 30, 1945, the Meredith College Athletic Association, headed by Doris Peterson, held the all-student Husking-Bee party in honor of the new students. On this occasion the faculty and students divided into couples dressed in overalls, print dresses, straw hats and pigtails — one dressed as a lad and the other as a fair lassie went to the dining hall, already decorated for Halloween, for dinner.

Immediately after dinner the party moved out into the courtyard where square-dancing proceeded. Following the dancing a few contests including chicken-calling, corn shucking and hog-calling took place. Each class then entered a number in a "Sing-Song Contest," which was judged on its exhibition of "pure corn and hillbillyishness" rather than upon the musical talent of the performers. Best costume also won a prize. Other prizes given were "an egg basket filled with candy coated almonds for being the best chicken-caller, a corn cob pipe for being the first to finish husking a bushel of corn and a piggy bank for winning hog-calling.

Although today many people work together to make Cornhuskin' possible, in 1945, only one social chairman was in charge of the Husking-Bee.

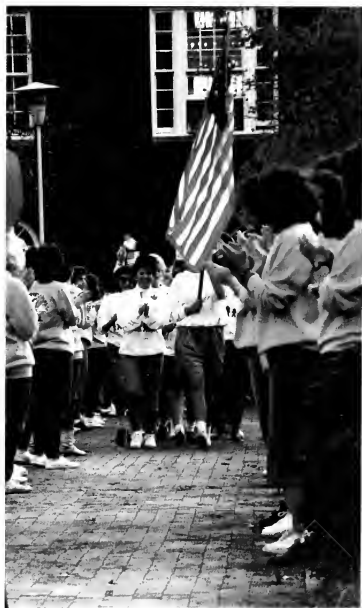

Now, after a glimpse of the first Husking-Bee let's get carried away with Flying High in the Danger Zone!

Although the final competition of Cornhuskin' was not until Thursday night, a great amount of Cornhuskin' fun began on the previous Sunday. During the week there were late-night water fights, toilet paper rolling in the courtyard and early morning banging and clanging through the dorms. Special events were the Duke Pitchforks and Big Sis/Lil Sis serenading.

While all of these activities were going on a lot of hard work went on behind the scenes. Each class had props to make, songs to write, lines to practice and costumes to make.

After days of preparation, the festivities were brought to a head by a picnic in the courtyard. The picnic was kicked off with a march into the courtyard by each class to introduce the individual themes. The freshman class brought with them The Big Chill, and The Show Must Go On was produced by the sophomores, while the juniors followed with It's a Small World. As tradition carries the senior class delivered a theme of It's About Time. Making their grand entrance, seniors ran through the courtyard throwing sticks of gum to the bystanders. Then came the seniors' time machine filled with balloons. As the march ended seniors gathered on the steps of Belk Dining Hall to sing to the other classes. With these events the picnic was in full swing. But this was no ordinary picnic! Meredith students had a chance to eat all of their favorite junk food — cotton candy, peanuts, ice cream, candy apples, foot-long hotdogs and hot apple cider. A few girls probably needed Pepto-Bismal after this shindig!!

Shortly after the picnic everyone scattered to take care of last minute preparations before going to Jones Auditorium. After donning costumes, each class proudly filed in and found their seats. Once again, Jones Auditorium was screaming wild with excitement — girls jumping up and down and yelling chants of enthusiasm at their adversaries while anxiously awaiting the commencement of Cornhuskin' '86. The roar of the auditorium gradually subsided as the lights dimmed and co-chairs Beth Cunningham and Kim Eberle took their respective places as coneheads in the Danger Zone.

Thinking Food

If one aspect of college life could win an award for causing the most complaints, the school food would win. Students did complain a great deal about the cafeteria food, but they also realized it was impossible for any cafeteria to measure up to the standards of Mom's home cooking. And for a home away from home, most agreed that Belk Dining Hall was close enough to Mom's cooking. The dining hall provided a place for students to relax and chat with friends.

The dining hall had a few renovations which greatly improved the atmosphere. A new salad bar was installed which made salad more enticing as well as an overall improvement. Also new tile was put in to enhance the dining hall. Probably the favorite addition to Belk was the ice cream machine. Both ice cream and yogurt were served in either a cup or cone. The ice cream machine had lots of business during the year.

Often, added extras such as sundaes, subs or a potato bar gave a special touch to the usual meal. Banquets were a time when the girls were able to celebrate Thanksgiving and Christmas together. These banquets always brought with them some type of entertainment and of course good food. A definite favorite of everyone was the entertainment. Various programs were given — a fashion show and the Duke Pitchforks were only two. Music was sometimes provided which was always uplifting to the students' morale.

If students wanted a change from the ordinary, Le Greenhouse offered just that opportunity. With frozen yogurt as their specialty, Le Greenhouse provided a relaxing atmosphere and good food for non-residents.

When students grew tired of studying, they knew where to go for real thought food — Belk Dining Hall and Le Greenhouse kept the Angels full.

STUDENT WORKERS

Need some extra money from an easily accessible place? Get a campus job! That's what our student workers opted to do. They found many opportunities open to them in various places on campus.

If you enjoyed shelving books and wanted a quiet place to work, the library was for you. Just think, it was one place on campus where guys were frequently seen and maybe sometimes even met. It was a great job. You had a relaxed atmosphere that allowed for some study time along with the opportunity to converse quietly with your friends.

The student book store allowed for a more commonly known occupation. If you wanted to work with money and wait on people, the student book store was perfect. You had fun dealing with various people — students, professors, and the general public. But, due to new semester book-buying, this job was not always fun and relaxed. For the most part, however, you had a good job. If it involves money it can't be so bad.

The box office gave you a versatile place to work. For a start, if you love balloons, this was the place to be. You got to work in the balloon gallery as a balloon blower-upper as well as in the box office. Aside from balloons, other duties involved such things as typing memos, answering the phone, selling tickets, and handing out the pool equipment. Yes, the box office workers were busy Angels.

The infirmary allowed you a distinctly different type of work experience. Perhaps you were interested in biology or chemistry, or maybe you just liked helping the infirmary nurses. Whatever the reason, you offered a helping hand and were greatly appreciated.

Whatever the need, student workers were available to fill the void. Whether they were working for financial aid or just for a few extra bucks, student workers found that campus jobs met their needs.

STUNT 87

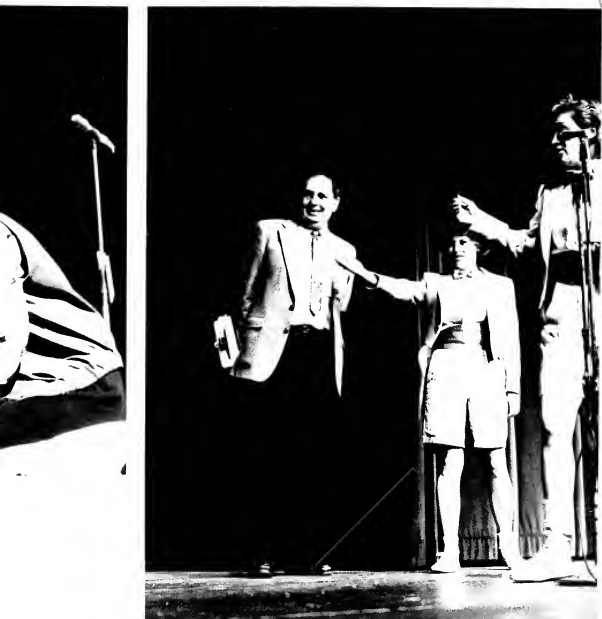

On March 18, 1987, Jones Auditorium once again saw some excitement. Was it Cornhuskin'? No. Was it MORE Freshman Orientation? No. Well, do you give up? It was Stunt '87. If you were there, you had fun. If you weren't, you'll wish you had been.

After weeks of hard work organizing, memorizing, and preparing, this annual spring event burst forth. Students advertised Stunt's theme, Walk This Way, dressed in Stunt t-shirts. The time was drawing near for each class to present their skit, but not before Aileen Jenkins, MRA President, and Casey Bass, Stunt chairperson, introduced a visiting comedian-ventriloquist, Taylor Mason.

Taylor Mason, a man of many talents, enlivened the night by performing throughout various segments of the evening. Mason began the show with his ventriloquism. He and his "dummy", Aileen, put on quite an act. This preceded other comical renditions such as an incredible piano performance and time spent with Mason's real dummy.

Following the preliminaries, each class presented their skit. The show was underway, beginning with the freshman class' There's No Place Like Home. We witnessed a Meredith College freshman going through the turmoil of debating whether or not Meredith was the school for her. After visiting various universities in her dreams, she knew the right decision had been made. Oriental Vacation was the sophomore's contribution to Stunt '87. A Texan family on vacation in China brought forth chaos from attempting to find an answer in a walk rather than in a wok. And the Butler Said . . . Walk This Way was presented by the junior class. The predicament dealt with a stolen Meredith class ring and several likely culprits. The problem was resolved, however, when a confession was made that it had been stolen in order for people to see the ring rather than having it where the beauty could not be appreciated. Lastly, the seniors presented Just A Step Away, a skit reminiscent of the days at Meredith. After receiving diplomas and reminiscing, the seniors changed the pace of their skit. Wearing sunglasses, they went into a dance routine to the song The Future's So Bright I Gotta Wear Shades. With the seniors rockin', Stunt '87 was brought to a close.

The judges, President John Weems, Dr. Jim Johnson, Doris Litchfield, and Margaret Douglas rated each class on script, acting, costumes and set. The seniors were awarded first place, the juniors second, the sophomores third and the freshmen fourth place.

fun at meredith

Down. Set. Hut! These were just a few of the many sounds one could hear drifting across the courtyard once intramurals began. The season started out with flag football and proceeded to volleyball, basketball and bowling.

Intramurals were organized by halls and the competition was often stiff. Each hall had a student coordinator who organized the teams, and many found that intramurals gave the individual halls a sense of unity and team spirit.

Campus-wide events were often planned to promote participation and interest in intramurals. One big event that capped off the football season was the attendance of WRAL's sportscaster, Tom Suiter. The championship game began with a picnic in the courtyard and flashes from the game were seen on T.V. The Superbowl champions felt well-rewarded for their effort.

Intramurals ended with The Battle of the Angelic Stars, an obstacle course that culminated the season. Awards to the champion teams were given on Play Day.

New Friends and Old Friends

Make new friends, but keep the old;
Those are silver, these are gold.
New-made friendships, like new wine,
Age will mellow and refine.
Friendships that have stood the test —
Time and change — are surely best;
Brow may wrinkle, hair grow gray,
Friendship never knows decay.
For 'mid old friends, tried and true,
Once more we our youth renew.
But old friends, alas! may die,
New friends must their place supply.
Cherish friendship in your breast —
New is good, but old is best;
Make new friends, but keep the old;
Those are silver, these are gold.

All Our Own

Meredith College is unique and filled with traditions. At no other college can Cornhuskin' or Stunt be found. These events and others make Meredith a truly special place to all that are affiliated with it.

Cornhuskin' is a time when classes come together to compete, yet as sisters. The unity between the Big Sis Lil Sis classes is strong. The excitement rings in the air.

Of course, one of the biggest events this year was Former President Jimmy Carter's appearance on campus. His lecture "America . . . A Champion of Peace?" was open to the entire Raleigh community. Much could have been learned from his visit.

Another event which includes the Raleigh area is Circus Fling. This year The Elements performed and were enjoyed by all. Concocting, games, and lots of food were available to everyone.

Meredith strives to be unique and to continue the traditions. In the society of today this is quite hard, but Meredith College manages to maintain her special qualities.

CIRCUS FLING

Wow! What would bring balloons, clowns, cotton candy and the biggest radio on earth to Meredith College's campus? Circus Fling, of course!

April 12, 1987 was not just another lazy Sunday afternoon for many people. Instead, Circus Fling '87 brought a live band, games and good food to the island. This event was open not only to students but to the general public as well. Many people brought blankets and just relaxed to listen to Reggae music played by The Elements. During intermission, they were also treated to a sample of Crystal Lennon's talents.

Many people walked around to various booths set up around the island. They saw a sponge-throwing booth, a ball-toss and a booth that offered goldfish as prize catches.

To offer additional entertainment, a musician and clown kept people amused. Magicians gave guests the personal attention of sculpting their favorite balloon figures. Other guests entered the canoe race with gusto.

Some students agreed that the best part of Circus Fling was the food. For one dollar each students could buy popcorn, candy apples, cotton candy, fruit popsicles, hotdogs, snowcones and ice cream. Boy, it was yummy!

It was all there. Everyone had a great afternoon "clowning" around!

VIP's

Meredith College was honored with a variety of guests this year. With the opportunity to listen and to be touched by guests on campus, Meredith students were able to extend their growth.

One of the most renowned guests was Former President Jimmy Carter, sponsored by the Lillian Parker Wallace Lecture Fund. During his stay, Mr. Carter held a press conference open to Meredith's faculty and student body. Later that day he lectured on America . . . A Champion of Peace? This was attended by many Meredith students as well as many Raleigh citizens.

The VIP's ranged from a local newscaster, Adele Arakawa, to a favorite of all, Carl Rosen. Many others visited campus this year, these were just a few.

The guests at Meredith College make distinct differences in the lives of the people they come in contact with. Those involved are grateful for the time taken by the guests in order to share a bit of themselves with us.

TALENT

Talent at Meredith College runs far and wide. Those with talent have an exceptional inborn capacity for a special field. Many use their gifts in Chapel or in Meredith Performs productions and in many other ways.

At Meredith a girl does not have to be musically or dramatically inclined. The publications offer to those who excel in design, writing and creativity a way for these girls to progress.

The Meredith Community gives many opportunities to all of those that are talented. Each academic department offers certain areas in which girls may learn and excel.

Talent just is not singing, acting, writing, designing, painting, but also teaching and working with people. There are too many talents to put a number on but Meredith certainly is filled with all types.

Interaction

At Meredith College there is a special bond that joins between the faculty, staff, and students. This bond, a friendship, develops over the time a student is at Meredith often forming lasting relationships.

A truly positive aspect of Meredith is the interaction of the faculty and student body. Being at a small college the professors are able to work with the students on a one-to-one basis. A student feels like a part of Meredith when she walks down the hall and her professors call her by name.

The administrative staff works closely with students to make their time at Meredith a happy and productive time. They are easily accessible to students and often become friends with student workers in their offices.

The Meredith staff takes part in many campus activities. This year Cornhuskin' was exciting because of the faculty's participation in corn shuckin', apple bobbin', and their not to be forgotten musical debut. The faculty always joins in to eat in the courtyard.

Meredith has a unique staff and student body. The interaction between the two could not be any stronger.

Awards Meredith Angels Excel

Meredith's best were rewarded for their efforts at the Academic and Student Leader Awards Day ceremonies. At the academic ceremony, faculty members and administrative personnel presented awards and scholarships to students who proved outstanding in scholastics at Meredith this year. The program listed the awards to be given, as well as the membership lists for college honor societies, recognizing new members.

The student leader awards were made special this year by the display of the leadership paintings created by students during the pre-college conference. In this ceremony, students recognized students for their achievements in extracurricular clubs and organizations. The welcome and closing were presented by Chandy Christian, our new director of Student Activities who showed she too could keep up with the many student groups busy at Meredith. Dina Durham, the assistant director, received a special award from Chandy for helping her get adjusted and get things done this year.

Both ceremonies left students and parents with smiles at seeing jobs well done in 86-87.

Meredith College — where it's at.

According to law, after September 1, 1986 those persons in North Carolina who purchase, possess or consume alcoholic beverages must be 21 years of age. The change came as a result of the passage of the Surface Transportation Act of 1982 by the U.S. Congress. Any state that did not adopt the legislation by 1987 would lose 5 to 10 percent of its federal highway funds. The new law, in the long run, will hopefully save the lives of the state's young people on the highway.

Former President Jimmy Carter addressed the Meredith Community on September 11, 1986. Mr. Carter's day on campus began with a press conference in Jones Auditorium, open only to the Meredith faculty, the student body and local press. Following this was an invitation only dinner with Mr. Carter and a reception just before his lecture in the evening. Mr. Carter's speech was titled "America ... A Champion Of Peace?" The lecture was open to the entire Raleigh community. Carter stated that we must strive for greatness in the life of our nation and in ourselves.

Meredith had a new addition to its community — the Gaddy-Hamrick Art Building. For years, the art department was spread throughout several buildings on campus. With the addition there is more space for classes and the displaying of new collections.

Farewell to B.J. Yeager. She celebrated her thirty-ninth year here at Meredith this past November and at the end of January she retired. A warm thank you is extended to Yeager for her many years of dedication to Meredith College.

On January 1, 1987, North Carolina motorists strapped on their seatbelts in compliance with new state law. Seat belt use became mandatory and violators could be penalized with $25 fines. The law may be difficult to enforce, but the public is concerned with safety and a large majority have complied.

The Beehive had its last painting this year. The building located between 1st Barefoot and Heilman has been here since the campus was first built in the mid-1920's. The Beehive got its name when it was used as the student store and snack bar. Recently it has been used as an art building and for the annual painting. The old building may have been unsafe for use, but this Meredith tradition will be greatly missed. Students are in search for another place to display Senior Cornhuskin' names and spirit.

On December 2, 1986 Meredith College was alive with glowing luminaries. The luminaries are a student body project to raise money for Interact, a division of United Way, which deals with rape crisis and battered wives. This year there were fifty-five hundred luminaries lining every road and sidewalk on campus. After the lighting everyone gathered around the fountain in front of Johnson Hall to sing Christmas Carols.

Congratulations to Chandy Christian on completing her first year as Meredith's Director of Student Activities. She replaced Rhoda Sowers, who is now in Illinois continuing her graduate work.

More than once this year the campus was visited by the fraternities or at least one brother who bored all. There was always an Angel who was willing to loan out a towel.

The Meredith Community makes its own contribution to life. The Red Cross comes to the campus to allow students easy access to a place where they may give blood. The program continues to get a great deal of support.

Academic time has to be right. Class schedules, homework time, and time for an internship or co-op has to be adjusted to each student's needs to make it just right for that individual. And Meredith students were able to time it all right again this year!

Art Studies

"The student who studies art at Meredith learns to function creatively in a variety of studio experiences and gains an understanding of the artist productivity of human culture through courses in art history." As formally stated in the Meredith Handbook, this is the purpose the art department strives for its art students.

Besides holding its normal art classes, the department welcomed a new change. A new Gaddy Hammerick Art Building was built and ready for use in January, 1987. The building, located directly behind the Carlyle Cambell Library is very modern, both on the exterior and on the interior. A special attraction to this new building is the art gallery in which Meredith students display their work. Students felt the new building inspired them to be more creative. "I just felt more relaxed working in here than the beehive," said one student. For the department, the goal to bring art alive on Meredith's campus was enhanced greatly this year.

Art Guild

The Art Guild is an organization for people who are interested in art. One does not have to be an art major to be in the Art Guild. A student can be a member all or any of the four years that she attends Meredith. The Art Guild has visiting guest speakers, illustrators, and other local artists. Each spring semester there is a student art show which the Art Guild organizes. Also, the Art Guild takes occasional trips to the art galleries and art shows that are held in Raleigh or nearby cities.

Students Strive To Learn More

While offering approximately 30 classes in biological studies the department strives to supply its students with the required biology studies, while also offering advanced courses that provide detailed exposure to many areas of biological sciences. The department offers both B.S. and B.A. in biology and certification as medical technician. A relatively young program to the department is the B.S. in nursing which is done with cooperation from Duke University School of Nursing and Medical Center. In class biology studies are on two main focuses, textual study and on-hands, lab work.

Beta Beta Beta

Beta Beta Beta is a biology honor society that is open to students majoring in biology. Students must have a 3.2 grade point average over all and a 3.5 average in their biology major to qualify for membership in the society. (members not pictured)

Minding Their Business

The size of the business and economics department expands each year as does the world of business and economics outside of Meredith College. The department yearns to enable its students to learn the practical know how of the business woman. Whether a student has a concentration in accounting, economics, or management, the goal is the same, to prepare for work in a world where business is important. A student may obtain a B.S. or a B.A. degree on the undergraduate level and continue for graduate study at Meredith where she can earn her MBA. The business and economics department is offering more classes in a variety of fields, hoping to expand the department.

Students may join several business related clubs at Meredith. For accounting students there is the accounting association. It meets once a month with topical discussions on accounting. The club also acts as a link for accounting students with the outside business world.

Tomorrow's Business Women is another club open to students who major or minor in business or economics. Students interested in business can become associate members of TBW.

Delta Mu Delta is the business administration honor society at Meredith. Students with good academic records are eligible for membership. Delta Mu Delta works with other business students to promote interest in the role of women in business.

A Good Combination

The chemistry and physical sciences department teaches through textbook and lab work. This fulfills the natural sciences requirement and laboratory requirement. The department had a special alumnae day this year to boost interest in chemistry.

The department of chemistry and physical science and the biology department join together in support of the Barber Science Club. Any student interested in science can join the club which has movies, field trips, and lectures during the year.

This year the club held a successful plant sale and also took a weekend trip with the zoology class to the Duke Marine Biology Laboratory in Beaufort, North Carolina.

Learning To Educate

The Education Department offers students the chance to become certified to teach K-4, 4-6, 6-9, and 9-12 and specialty areas. The department requires that students work under professionals in the local school system for practice at teaching. It also sponsors a Student-Teacher banquet where students get the opportunity to meet the teacher who will supervise them in the school classrooms.

In the spring this year, as in the past, the department along with the career services office provided a day for interviewers from school systems in North Carolina and Virginia to interview Meredith students looking for jobs in education. This day was a success for some students who found jobs and for others to have experience in an interview situation.

Lasting Skills

Maintaining a reputation of excellence is easy for the Meredith English department. The staff members instill in students writing skills and grammar skills that they retain long after they leave Meredith.

The department teaches freshmen the basic skills they will need for college level writing. In upper level courses, students learn from the best in Major British Authors and American Literature.

English majors can continue to study literature and improve their writing skills through courses in technical writing, creative writing, Irish literature, Chaucer and Shakespeare, to name a few.

Students of English can join the Colton English Club for interaction with other students interested in English. The club and many of the department classes sponsor guest speakers and films during the year. There are also opportunities for students to go as a group to local theatrical productions of their favorite plays and books. This year, for example, the English Club organized a trip to Chapel Hill to see a production of Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream. Students also saw a production of Shakespearian scenes on campus when two actors from the Shakespeare Festival came to present their show and talk to classes about their work.

The Meredith English department has worked hard to provide students with a good foundation in grammar, writing skills, and in literary appreciation, and they have built a great reputation in doing so.

More Than Words

Bonjour! Guten Tag! Hola! These greetings and other foreign words can be heard throughout the foreign language department.

Each student at Meredith is required to take at least six hours of a foreign language. However, the purpose of the department goes beyond just requirements. According to Dr. Kurtz, the head of the foreign language department, "the purpose of the department is to enable students to broaden their perspective in the world we live in by introducing them to different cultures."

Some areas of foreign language study extend beyond the classroom. Language halls are open to students who speak Spanish or French. For girls choosing to explore this way of living there are special programs and conversation hours so that students not only learn the languages better, but also get a sense of the cultures from which the languages come.

Language clubs are also available for French and Spanish students. At club meetings there are often guest speakers and movies. Meredith also sponsors programs abroad where students can travel and study in other countries.

The foreign language department has gone beyond college requirements by giving students the gift of cultural enrichment as well as the knowledge of a second language.

Past, Present, Future

The history and politics department offers planned interdisciplinary majors. Students are encouraged to take additional courses in business, economics and computer science so they would be better prepared for job opportunities. Students are also aided in their study by guests that frequently come to campus to speak on election work or their job in a related area. This year students had the special treat of hearing former President Jimmy Carter speak in the auditorium on campus. Another educational guest was Dorothy Ridings, who talked to students about her work with the League of Women Voters. Students got other chances to enrich their history/politics education through the club that coincides with the department.

History and politics students at Meredith are provided with more than a knowledge of their subjects, they are provided with a well-rounded education that enables them to go straight into a job after college.

Concentrating On Variety

The areas of home economics are expanding each year at Meredith. The department at Meredith has concentrations in child development and family relations, clothing and fashion merchandising, consumer resource management, foods and nutrition, interior design and housing, and general home economics.

Home economics students can learn more than classroom studies through two clubs and one honor society associated with the home economics department. The home economics club is open to any student majoring or minoring in home economics. The club sponsored a fashion show this year before the Winter Formal. There was also a spring fashion show.

IBD is another club for students in home economics. Kappa Omicron Phi is the national home economics honor society open to students with a good scholastic average. Leadership, professionalism, and fellowship among faculty and students are also encouraged by the society.

It All Adds Up

Preparing for the technological world, a world constantly being geared toward the computer, the math department seeks to prepare the Meredith student for this changing world. The department not only satisfies the basic liberal arts education requirements, but also offers three possible majors. During the year the department sponsors the Freshman/Sophomore Math Competition. The winners this year were: 1st place — Gina Howard; 2nd place Maria Terry; Honorable mention — Teresa Swafford and Karen Knight.

Students interested in mathematical science and its uses outside the classroom can join the Canaday Math Club. This year the club had a lot of activities including a picnic at the lake; a lecture from Dr. David Kraines, a visiting professor from Duke University; and a special dinner.

Keeping In Time With The Beat

The Meredith Music department is a very visible part of the campus. The choir, chorale, and handbell choir entertained the Meredith community as well as the Raleigh community this year. Events on the campus included special chapel services, Parent's Weekend performances, a Christmas concert and various recitals by music students. The Meredith Ensemble is another musical group that performs at the Christmas dinner and other occasions such as the academic Awards Day ceremony this year. This year continues to be a visible one for the Meredith Chorale who travel to Scandinavia this summer.

Students interested in music can also join the Music Educators National Conference where they can interact with other students at Meredith with the same interests.

Sigma Alpha Iota is another outlet for students to meet with other music students. This international, professional music fraternity for women admits members on the basis of scholarship, music ability and recommendation by the music faculty.

Students On Stage

Meredith's department of Performing Arts educates students in theatre, speech, drama, and dance. Through the Meredith Performs program students get a prime opportunity to exhibit their talents and newly learned skills. This fall the program offered the musical comedy The Boyfriend which took audiences at Meredith back into the 1920's for an amusing look at love.

In March the Meredith Dancers presented a night of dance in which they shared their year's work. They were also able to work with the well-known choreographer Robert Small. February brought a chance for drama students at Meredith to participate in the controversial play Josephine the Mouse Singer.

Speech students practiced their techniques in classes and organizations where headlining and good delivery came in handy. The time was good for performing at the College this year.

Below: Students in Josephine the Mouse Singer discuss the dangers of Josephine's songs. Right: A student prepares to go on stage.

Eternal Exercise

The physical education department teaches students through exercise. Students have a number of sports from which to choose their physical education elective. They can also choose to take a health course for this elective.

The department also provides a lot of the equipment for the intramural sports events. Some of the physical education instructors even coach the Meredith sports teams. Exercise is always important and the physical education department sees that Meredith students learn all they can while they are exercising and having fun.

Studying What Makes Us Tick

The psychology department offers various classes that allow the student to learn more about the study of behavior and its relationship to the mind. Students often choose to take introductory psychology as one of their elective requirements in the social and behavioral sciences category. Often this sparks an interest in students so that they continue to take courses in the discipline. Some go on to minor or major in psychology. These students along with those who planned to major in psychology from the beginning are offered the chance to learn outside the classroom in the psychology club. A student can join the club if she has an interest in psychology and wants to hear special guests on campus talk about their work or experience in the field or related fields. The club also has informative sessions, ice cream socials and special movies.

Students with a good grade point average overall and in psychology are eligible for membership in Psi Chi, a national honor society. This year Psi Chi sponsored the Annual Carolinas Psychology Conference through Meredith and N.C. State. The conference enabled students to meet with other students in the discipline from other colleges and universities.

Expanding Thought Through Learning

The religion requirement is often a point of controversy with many students at Meredith. Many students find that once they enter a religion course that it enriches and enlightens their own beliefs rather than challenging them. Students are introduced to the Bible as literature from a historical and theological point of view. Students interested in religion can join the Freeman Religion Club. This year the club had the Tuesday Breakfast Club which met at 7:30 to have breakfast and devotion before class on Tuesdays. The club also sponsored the annual "Crookout" at the home of Dr. Crook, the club's advisor. They also had a speaker from Women's Prison and a visiting professor from Scotland to tell students of their experiences. The club has missions work every year in the community where students can help others. Students interested in philosophy have three courses that introduce them to the vast study and show them philosophy in its beginnings and philosophy today. Much of religious philosophy is obtainable through other religious courses.

Studying People In Their World

The sociology department teaches students to notice the world around them and how people relate to it. The department offers students the opportunity to major in sociology or social work or both. It has special lecture series and movies along with the regular classroom studies.

Students with an interest in sociology can join the sociology and the social work clubs. This year the sociology club worked a lot with Meredith's Association for Black Awareness on minority issues and on projects related to apartheid. The social work club had Halloween and Valentine parties, Career Day, and speakers on gerontology, child protective services, and the graduate school at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Student Government Association

During the 1986-87 school year, the Student Government Association sponsored alcohol awareness week and a voter registration drive. They supported Feed Raleigh, helped to establish a Food Committee to improve cafeteria conditions. They also selected the winner of the Freshman Carlyle Campbell Award, and awarded three S.G.A. Service and Leadership Awards. It was during the first days of December, however, when S.G.A. prepared their latest project. With the help of other Meredith Students, they lit up the campus with luminaries. The Second Annual Luminary Project raised over $1000 for Interact, a Wake County-based United Way Agency.

Honor Council

One of the things that Meredith takes pride in is the Honor System. Every year the Freshman Class takes an oath of upholding the Honor Code throughout their years at Meredith. The Honor Council is a branch of the Student Government Association that enforces the Honor Code. Nine members have to be present at any of the hearings. Including the chair, the secretary, the S.G.A. president and the advisor as non-voting members. There are five voting members, one faculty representative and four student representatives.

Student Foundation

Student Foundation plans events that bring older as well as younger children on the campus. Parents Weekend, for the "older children," is an opportunity for some of the girls' parents to spend time on campus with their daughter. Many different activities are planned for this first semester event. They are also in charge of Little Friends Weekend, which falls in the Spring. For this, Meredith students bring young girls on campus to spend the weekend with them. Some of the activities they can participate in are painting visers, going swimming, and seeing movies.

Senate

Senate is a branch of the Student Government Association that consists of three Senators from each class, two non-resident Senators, the handbook editor, the secretary, the chairwoman, one faculty representative, and the advisor. Senate makes up one-half of the legislative branch of S.G.A. and serves as a balance to the Student Life Committee.

This year, Senate formed subcommittees to work on campus-accessible telephones outside Johnson Hall and Male Visitation. Senate also took ideas from students about dorm concerns, cafeteria problems, and class attendance policies and made sure they got to the appropriate outlet for action. To make Senate more visible, Senators put up posters on each residence hall as well as held S.G.A. office hours in Cate Center.

The bulk of the Senate's time this year was spent on male visitation. After taking a student survey through hall meetings and researching the policies of other women's colleges with male visitation, they wrote a six-page visitation policy for Meredith. The subcommittee, as well as the other Senate members did an excellent job with the male visitation proposal and all issues that came into 1986-87 Senate.

The Elections Board sponsors all campus elections and works hard throughout the year to promote them. They worked diligently on Freshman Elections and all year ending with the Special Elections in April. The board sponsored the Elections Convention in the spring where other organizations were allowed to set up booths to generate interest in students to run for offices in their organizations. There was also a speaker at the convention to encourage students to vote and to run for campus offices.

Selections, from the Junior and Senior classes, are made every year for the Silver Shield, an honorary leadership society. Christian character, high standards of honor, service to the school, the ideals and traditions of Meredith, leadership, and a basically well-rounded student are the characteristics that all the women have who are in the Silver Shield. Members of the organization and faculty select the new members who will strive to set an example of cooperation and honor within the student body.

Marshals

Every Spring two marshals from the freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior classes are elected. The college marshal coordinates all marshals' activities. The marshals serve Meredith College as representatives of the college at such functions as Parents' Weekend, Baccalaureate, commencement, Founders' Day, drama productions, and college sponsored concerts and lectures.

Meredith Christian Association

The council members and committee members of the 1986-87 Meredith Christian Association were very busy planning and implementing activities for the entire Meredith community. These activities included worship services, Religious Emphasis Week, service projects at Dartha Dix, Governor Moorehead School, Women's Prison, and Glenwood Towers, publishing the "Branching Out" newsletter, delivering Cheer Bags during fall semester exams, unwindings, and the Crop Walk. Besides sponsoring these activities, the M.C.A. took students to several State Baptist Student Conferences (Fall Convention at Ridgecrest, Spring Conference at Caraway, Missions Conference at Louisville, Kentucky). The council also went on a planning retreat in September to relax and plan the year's events. It is hoped that these and other events of M.C.A. helped enrich the spiritual life of the Meredith community.

Meredith Entertainment Association

The Meredith Entertainment Association seeks to coordinate stimulating activities for the entire college community, which shares in the membership of M.E.A. Personal development is encouraged through the numerous programs sponsored by M.E.A., which include movies and special events such as the luau, dances, and holiday events such as the Haunted House, Spring Fling and much more. This year they even had a ticket series and sold football tickets to NCSU home games. Also, the Coffeehouse Series with magicians and comedians was a new activity held in Le Greenhouse.

Resident and non-resident students, faculty, staff, and friends of the College are invited to participate in M.E.A. programs. Persons interested in working with M.E.A. to plan and implement programs are welcome at the M.E.A. meetings throughout the year.

Association for Black Awareness

Having an awareness of your culture and purpose is a very special thing. This is something that the Association for Black Awareness tries to achieve. Not only do they sponsor Black Emphasis Week but also provide a medium for block cultural programs on campus. They help create a better understanding of the black heritage within the Meredith community.

"May I have your attention please! Let me direct you to the hardworking and enthusiastic members of the Meredith Recreation Association. This year alone they have planned and coordinated Cornhuskin' 86 — 'Flying High in the Danger Zone,' Stunt '87 — 'Walk This Way with M.R.A.,' and Play Day '87 — 'Walt Disney Play Day.' These dedicated people brought back Christmas Caroling to the Tammy Lynn Center, Governor Morehead School for the Blind, and Glenwood Hills this year. M.R.A. provided the Meredith Miller, which has been very successful, and the Intramurals such as flag football, volleyball, baseball, bowling, soccer, and the Second Annual Battle of Angelic Stars. So in the future, don't make a play day of flying high in the danger zone; just walk this way with M.R.A. Thank you."

Meredith International Association

The Meredith International Association teaches students at Meredith to better understand and appreciate other cultures. Students in the association try to promote campus interest in the cultures of peoples outside this country as well as their social and political concerns.

Each year the association sponsors a worship service for United Nations Week, and they also have an international luncheon for the Meredith faculty members.

Non-Resident Association

The Non-Resident Association has grown to new heights this year with increased membership and activities. A tool booth was set up during Freshman Orientation supplying nails, hammers and other useful items for moving in. Christmas rolled around and Cate Center was seen as never before. N.R.A. supplied a tree, wreaths and snowflakes to decorate the student center for the holidays. Nearing the end of spring semester, the graduates were honored at a luncheon. The year was full of accomplishments and anticipation awaits the next year.

Resident Assistants

Some of the very important people on campus are the Resident Assistants. There is one placed on every hall to run hall meetings, help girls with academic and personal problems, and just to be a friend. They are carefully chosen each April by a selected committee. Any girl on campus is invited to apply for this position. She has to turn in a formal written application with three references and be interviewed once by the selected committee and twice by the dean of students. The Resident Assistant is expected to uphold and enforce the Honor Code, assist students in different situations, encourage students to participate in activities, facilitate good campus communication, and present herself as a positive role-model. Resident Assistants are capable young women that play a big role in all the students' lives on campus.

Residence Hall Association

The Residence Hall Association is a group of elected executive council members and Resident Assistants whose purpose is to enhance residence hall life. Working closely with the residence life staff, they coordinate different social, recreational, and educational programs for all the students. Some of the activities they plan are fire drills, Christmas Door Decorating Contest, Thanksgiving Dinner, Christmas Dinner, Roommate Game and Exam Breaks. R.H.A. is also responsible for encouraging communication, between the students and participation in the school.

Astrotekton Society

To Meredith Students the colors gold and white, and the mascot, Billy Astro, are familiar symbols of the Astrotekton Service Club, also known as the Astros. Rush week is held during second semester of the year. All prospective members are invited to a party held by the Astros to learn more about their club. The Astrotekton Society is a service club that is involved with not only events at Meredith but also in the Raleigh community. They are a sponsor of Multiple Sclerosis and have many Fund Raising projects for M.S. and other events on campus. As one can see they believe in their motto, "He builds too low who builds beneath the stars."

Granddaughters' Club

The members of the Mae Grimmer Granddaughters' Club share a common bond in that their mothers and/or grandmothers also went to Meredith. The club enables students with this background to meet, participate in alumnae programs, and share in activities together.

Philaretian Society

A spirit of togetherness is what the Philaretian Society brings to Meredith. The Phis, whose colors are blue and white, is a service club that is involved in the Raleigh and Meredith Communities. From the Phi prayer one can see what sisterhood and helping others mean to them:

"Thank you for the golden star & philaretian sign.

Thank you for these sisterhoods & friends kept Close.

Let us wear upon hearts the mottos that we teach.

To know thy will & do thy will — make this our goal to reach."

Whenever one sees the mascot, Milton the Bear, or "The Bathtub Ring," the Phis come to mind. They are involved with the Cerebral Palsy Center and events on campus. During Social Week everyone is invited to learn more about the Philaretian Society and becoming a part of the sisterhood. "For this is the journey that men make: to find themselves" is the motto of the Phis.

Acorn

The Acorn, Meredith's art and literary magazine, provides a creative outlet for students, as well as faculty and staff. Published every spring, the Acorn includes select poetry, short stories, art work, and photography chosen by the editor. The 1987 edition was headed by editor Jennifer Hubbard, with Jo Hodges as assistant.

Meredith Herald

The campus newspaper, The Meredith Herald, has as a constant goal to provide the campus with a weekly publication that is not only informative, but entertaining as well.

The paper serves as link to the campus community of events pertinent to them at Meredith and in the world.

This year the paper has concentrated on national events more through the use of news briefs and editorials in an attempt to educate the campus on political issues.

In addition to focusing on those events, the Herald has tried to strengthen their relation and understanding of the faculty through feature articles on them.

The interaction between the campus community and the staff has contributed greatly to the success of the newspaper's operation.

Intramural Representatives

Fun, excitement, competition, team work, and some great exercise is what one will find when participating in the Intramural competitions. There are many different competitions held throughout the year. Some of the sports are flag football, basketball, volleyball, bowling, swimming, badminton and soccer. Each hall organizes a team to participate in each event. Points are given to the top teams in a certain competition. Then on Play Day, awards for the best overall team and individual winners are presented.

Student Advisors

There are some girls who play a very important part in the lives of incoming freshman and transfer students. These young women are Student Advisors. Their name describes them perfectly. They are a select group of upperclassmen chosen and trained to aid freshmen just entering college who may not realize what a change it is from the life they are used to. Student Advisors are there when the girls get to Meredith and spend quite a bit of time with them throughout Freshman Orientation. They guide the girls through registration, introduce them to the campus and help them with any problems they may have the first few weeks at Meredith. They are positive, energetic young women who can be very special friends.

Hoof Print

"No, you don't have to take the class if you want to learn more about horses." Hoof Print helps young women have a better understanding, knowledge, and skill in the field of horsemanship. The group works at some horse shows and has fund raisers to support the equitation program at Meredith.

College Republicans

"Do you want to know more about Republican politics? If so, join the College Republicans. They can help you better understand Republican politics in Raleigh, North Carolina, and the United States. You may even have interest in having a chance to volunteer your services to help a candidate run for office. You know having the opportunity to attend a Statewide convention is very exciting. All you have to do is show interest in having a better understanding of the Republican Party. So join now!"

A Winning Season

The 1986 Tennis team had both an impressive fall season and spring season. The fall season ended with a record of 5-3 and the spring with a record of 6-4. The biggest victories were against Queens College and Greensboro College with the girls winning eight of the nine matches.

The team is coached by Jay Massey, department head of Physical Education. The team consisted of five returnees: Barbara Bulla (senior), Elizabeth Hornthal and Adrienne Gore (juniors), Emily Houser, Amy Messick and Kim Brittsan (sophomores). New players are Ann Whiteside, Elizabeth Wilson, Angela Tilley, Michelle Lenhart, Jean Nichols, Beth Bryant, Donna Mantooth, Adrienne LeBlanc and Jennifer Sipes. Many play only one season a year. Emily Houser received the MVP award for outstanding record in singles and doubles.

Softball

Tough Competition

The 1986 Softball Team struggled trying to integrate new team members into vital positions and learn strategy to work together as a team. The pitching staff consisted of just two players, Joan Wyatt and Lisa Crabtree, for the whole season. Next year the coach hopes to get one or two more pitchers to add depth to the staff. There were also only two catchers. They were Kay Crowder and Margaret Gill. The outfield consisted of returning players who played well all season. As in the past, the major weakness of the team was the girls' hitting. It has improved, but was not consistent enough to win. The leading batters were Kelly Bagby, Karen Mann, and Becky Smith. The leading fielders were Aileen Jenkins, Karen Mann, and Margaret Gill. In addition to the returning players, there were seven freshmen. Next year's team will have a strong backbone to build upon. The team was coached by Susan Cox.

Intramurals

Intramural Events

The 1986-87 Intramural sports season was an exciting, enjoyable experience for everyone who participated. Intramurals provide an opportunity for everyone to take part in sports events without the pressure of competing against other schools. Any girl can play, even if she is not very good at sports. There are both events for individuals and teams. There are seven sports throughout the year and a finale of Battle of the Angelic Stars. These events give everyone a break from academics and allow them to have some fun.

The individual event is badminton and the team events are flag football, soccer, volleyball, basketball, swimming, bowling, and the Battle of Angelic Stars which included relay races, a crazy dive competition and an ice cream drop.

Aqua Angels

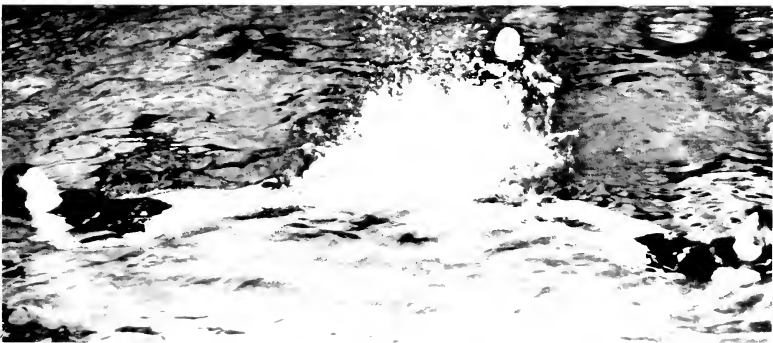

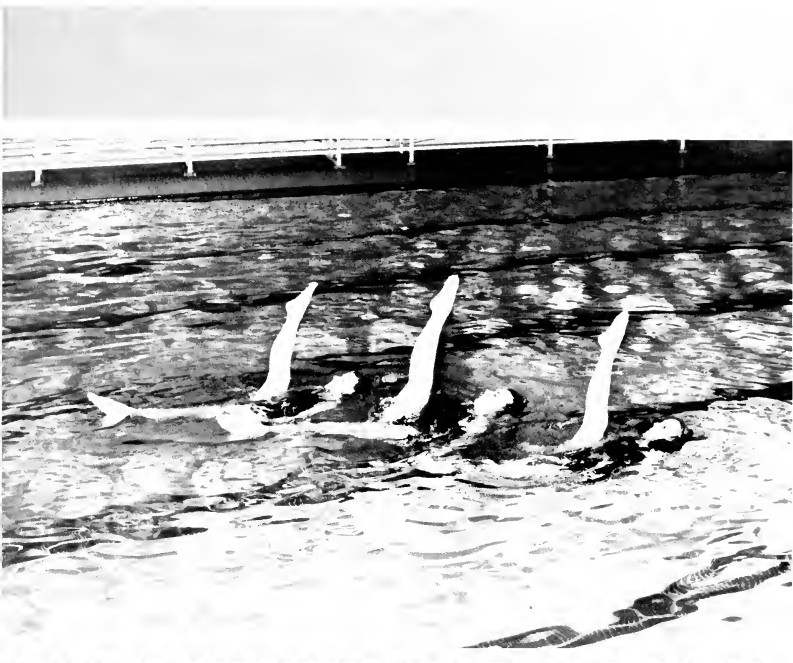

"Around the World in 60 Minutes"

The Aqua Angels are the synchronized swimming group who perform for Meredith College. They have been a part of the P.E. program for 20 years. They perform for Parents' Weekend and do one show at the end of the year after practicing stunts and tricks first semester and planning routines during second semester. The girls choreograph their own routines.

This year the girls' show had an interesting theme. The show was entitled "Around the World in 60 Minutes." The girls performed routines to music from nine different countries. In addition to Meredith's own Aqua Angels, the synchronized swimmers from Duke also performed. The girls performed in small groups until the finale in which the whole group from Meredith took part.

Four members returned from last year providing a strong backbone for the team. The girls were coached by Carol Brown.

Volleyball

A Winning Tradition

The Meredith College Volleyball team pulled out a winning season with a record of 14-12. The major weakness of the team was a lack of height. The team was led by senior Susan Beck and junior Julie Jones, who both received the Outstanding Performance award, and by junior Sue Reese, who received the MVP award for being the best hitter, having the most kills and having the best setting percentage. Karen Mann became the new setter because last year's setter graduated. The 1986 team played consistently well throughout the season, winning many of their matches in straight sets.

The team members are: Seniors: Karen Mann, Susan Beck; juniors: Julie Jones, Carolina Gomez, Sue Reese; sophomores: Corina Porras, Crystal Lennon; and freshmen: Kim Smith, Yvette Brown, Amanda Brooks, and Sandy Blakmon. They were coached by Cindy Bross and Marie Chamblee.

Basketball

“Together We Will”

The Meredith College Basketball team had a new coach this year. She was Susan Cox and she has a long background as both a player and a coach.

The season's record was deceiving at 4-10 because the team played very impressively. The team had seven returning players who formed the backbone of the group. The captains were seniors Aileen Jenkins and Karen Mann. The leading scorer was sophomore Susan Ellington, averaging 19 points per game. The leading rebounder was junior Sue Reese with an average of seven rebounds per game. Both girls contributed greatly in each game the team played.

There was much team unity this year as is evidenced by the team theme or motto — “Together We Will” and by students at the games. The members of the team that will be united again next year are juniors Lou Ann Stephenson, Linda Spanton, Sue Reese, and Tee Nagle; sophomore Susan Ellington; and freshmen Amy Adams and Treva Hartsell.

A Dedicated Team

The Meredith golf team, though small, is a strong team. The three players this year were junior Shelley Paul (captain), sophomore Jennifer Guyer, and freshman Tracy Sternberg. The coach was Mike Farrington from the Raleigh Country Club. Shelley Paul was the leading scorer on the team this year.

The requirements for team play call for at least five players, so Meredith golfers must play the game as individuals.

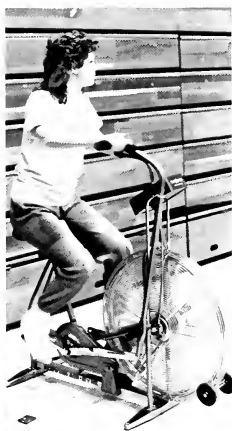

The team practices all year because there are fall and spring playing seasons. The spring season tournaments are played at Rolling College in Florida, Duke University, UNC-Wilmington, and William and Mary. Then, in May, there are the small college nationals. In order to participate, the girls must receive invitations to play. Nationals were held in Wisconsin this year.

Photos of the golf team were not available.

Time Out for Fun and Games

Time spent with the Meredith administrative staff is quality time because of the excellent staff members that keep the College running like clockwork.

Dr. LaRose Spooner is the Assistant to President Weems. She stays very busy working for Meredith.

Sharon Woodlief is the Administrative secretary. She assists the President at all times.

President John Weems is in his sixteenth year of service at Meredith College. Weems' goal for the future is to make Meredith the best college in women's education. He would also like Meredith to have the best faculty, students, library, facilities, planning techniques and a strong endowment.

Dr. Weems is the chief educational and administrative officer of Meredith College. He is responsible to the Board of Trustees for the supervision, management and governance of the College and for interpreting and carrying out the policies of the board.

In his spare time Dr. Weems likes to play golf, read, listen to music, do computer programs and try anything new and interesting.

Joe Baker is the Vice President for Administrative Affairs for the college. He serves under the President and is a part of the President's office. The jobs of Mr. Baker's office are varied and include representing the President and/or Meredith on committees, at meetings and other functions, especially in dealing with alumnae. This office serves as a connection between the College and outside groups. One of Mr. Baker's primary duties is in public relations, particularly denominational relations with Baptist churches and agencies.

The Office of Continuing Education is the Administrative unit. It is the contact point for adults who seek a variety of learning experiences. Seated: Pam Gerace, Barbara Willis, Anne Dahle. Standing: Dr. Ellen Ironside, Sue Covenar, Betty Boss.

Dr. Charles Davis, Associate Dean and Registrar, is one of many on campus who teaches in the classroom and serves in an administrative position. As a member of several committees which set academic policies for the college, he acts as a liaison between the faculty and administration. His office is responsible for the scheduling of classes, student registration and academic records. Students visit the registrar's office to fill out academic forms, register for classes, order transcripts and receive academic counseling on graduation requirements. The members of the office staff are: Seated: Laura Burakowski, Charles Davis, Sue Todd. Standing: Judy Cooper, Barbara Black.

Anne Pickard is the administrative secretary. She assists Dean Burris.

Dr. Allen Burris is Vice President and Dean of the College and has general supervision over the academic division of the College and, in the absence of the President, may act in matters throughout the College. The academic division of the college includes the faculty in fifteen academic departments; the graduate program; the honors program; cooperative education; international education; the library; the Registrar's office; and the office of Continuing Education. His division's responsibilities are to see that there is a competent faculty, that curriculum is carefully planned to meet the needs of a variety of students, is adequately supported with books and other teaching aids, is well taught, and that the results are properly recorded on a permanent record.

Dr. Burris teaches regularly in the department of history and politics, advises students on academic and other concerns, and is active in many facets of the life of the College.

ORGANIZING THE BASICS

CONTROLLING CASH

Bill Wade was new to the office of Chief Accountant this year. He is in charge of the recording of all monetary transactions that Meredith undertakes. His office handles all the purchase orders, check requests, pay checks, and petty cash that is used by offices and departments at Meredith.

Mr. Charles Taylor, Vice President for financial affairs is in charge of managing the College's financial and physical resources. His office and the office under his supervision control financial planning; managing cash and investments; accounting; financial reporting; purchasing; and managing salaries and benefits. A list of Mr. Taylor's responsibilities should also include data processing; facilities operation and maintenance; campus security; property management; and supervision of food services, housing, communications and stores.

Lesia Godwin operates the Central Services office. She prints small campus publications such as memos, leaflets, brochures, programs, etc.

Gerry Sargent is the campus operator.

Elizabeth Currins runs the campus post office.

Glen Sanderson is manager of Information Services. He is in charge of Central Services, the post office, etc.

Campus security is under the leadership of Chief Dan Shattuck. His officers patrol campus, regulate parking, keep buildings secure, help students with problems, and supervise the fire prevention program on campus. Picture: (left to right) Back row: Chief Dan Shattuck, Millie Parrish, Worth Bailey. 2nd row: V.C. Medlin, Parking Marshall; Sherwood Jones; Chuck Soccell. front row: Kenneth Fore, Thurmond Metheny, Parking Marshall; Joe Wilson. Not pictured: Timmy Morris, Wilbur Adams, Bill Griner, Aubrey Underwood (Parking Marshall) and Bobby Shattuck.

Virginia Scarboro is secretary to the Vice President of Business and Finance. She helps him in many ways.

College Health Services is under the direction of Marie Mason. A nurse is on duty 24 hours a day. Our nurses are Ruth Pearce, Georgia Stephens, and Fronia Thacker.

The Office of Career Services helps students locate employment — summer work, part-time, or full-time for graduates. They also provide individual career counseling for those trying to decide on a major. They assist in resume writing and provide a reference file. They also have on campus recruiters so students can interview with possible employers.

Residence Directors live in apartments on campus. R.D.'s supervise the work of residence assistants and serve as advisors and resources for many organizations and students on campus. This year's R.D.'s were Susie Stewart, Laura Welch, Marge Stevens, Lynn Rhoades, Paula Williams and Gretchen McQuillan.

Ms. Dorothy Sizemore is the Dean of Students. She is responsible for orientation programs and activities which serve to increase the new students' adjustment to the college community.

Coordinator of Housing is Janice McClendon. She has the hard task of assigning everyone a room. She deals with room changes and makes recommendations on things that would facilitate housing.

Marge Shelton, our college counselor, assists students by acting as sounding board and advisor for personal, academic, vocational, or socioemotional concerns. She seeks to help students at Meredith in their personal growth whether their needs or goals are focused on campus or off.

The campus minister, Sam Corothers, seeks to offer guidance for the development of religious programs off campus and seeks to offer ministry to the diverse needs of a college setting.

Sam Corothers serves as advisors for the Meredith Christian Association and is actively involved in assisting with programs and plans of this organization.

The associate minister, Kelly Kessler, focuses on the six service projects of MCA, outreach programs, small groups and other related areas.

The campus ministry secretary is Gay Elliot.

Chandy Christian's first year as student activities coordinator is a busy but productive one. Campus associations, student government and student publications all report to Chandy and her assistant, Dina Durham, for advice and scheduling of their activities. Chandy must also keep track of the funding for these groups and the projects they do for Meredith under the expert guidance that comes from the office of student activities.

Chandy's office is also kept busy with non-organization work since it is she and her student workers that put together the Meredith Activities Calendar each year as well as the Student Leader Workshop and part of Freshman Orientation.

The staff of the Admissions Office hosts open days for high school juniors and seniors and recruits students to Meredith by going to their schools. They meet with high school guidance counselors and interview students on and off campus for entrance to Meredith. The office is also in charge of reviewing and processing all applications that come from students seeking to attend the College. Picture: (left to right) Barbara Craig, Betty Craven, Anne Pugh, Pam Bercke, Glenda Hoffman. (front row) Sally Davis, Sue Kearney, Bridget Rubes.

HELPING STUDENTS

Dr. Sandra Thomas is the Vice President for student development. She is in her thirteenth year at Meredith. She emphasizes the importance of student life interaction on campus and the collegiate interaction between the faculty, students, and administration. Dr. Thomas oversees the offices that relate directly to students. Student employment, health services, activities, religious programs, housing, counseling, and campus life programs are under Dr. Thomas' direction. She and the offices under her supervision help to make sure that students are comfortable and happy at Meredith.

Dr. Thomas likes to travel, to stay in shape. She plays several instruments also.

HELPING MEREDITH GROW

Mr. John Hiatt is the Director of Scholarships and Financial Assistance. His assistant is Alberta Hawes. Hiatt counsels with students and parents on ways to finance education. He processes applications to Meredith and makes funds available based upon the application.

Anne Purcell is the Coordinator of Annual Giving. She works with the phonathon in raising money and also with the parents programs like Parents Weekend and Little-Friends weekend. On the left is her administrative secretary, Alice Johnson.

Dr. Jerry McGee is Vice-President for institutional advancement. He is very busy at Meredith trying to secure resources so Meredith can grow. Mr. McGee is unable to spend a lot of time at Meredith because he travels meeting with possible donors.

Dr. McGee is the chief administrative officer. He is responsible for development, fund raising, publications, alumnae affairs, public relations, church relations, parent relations, estate planning, media relations, and related activities. The staff are assigned specific duties in these areas.

Fund-raising activities are designed to secure resources for current operation expenses, capital improvements, and endowment.

Dr. McGee is leaving Meredith this year to pursue his career at Furman. He will be much missed by students and staff members at Meredith.

Doris Litchfield is Meredith's new Director of Alumnae Affairs; she replaced Cleo Perry. Mrs. Litchfield helps get alumnae contributions each year through the Every Year Donor Club and the Loyalty Fund. She and her office also help with reunions and class activities.

Seated on left: Anne Ruey. Center: W.C. Lyon, Jr. Seated on right: Billie Jo Cockman. Mr. Lyon is the Director of Planned Giving. He calls on alumnae and friends and helps them with estate planning, such as wills and trust, for conveying them to Meredith. Billie Jo Cockman is the Director of Corporate Relations. She deals with different corporations and assists them with their donations to Meredith through foundations.

The College Relations office is responsible for advertising, publicity, and news media. They do all of the college publications with the exception of the students' publications. They are responsible for the college photography, catalogue and handbook. Seated Carolyn Robinsan, Director; Renee Keever, Associate Director, and standing, Carolyn Bass, secretary.

Time spent as a class is always full of fun and energy. Cornhuskin', Stunt, and class projects must be timed just right so that everyone can participate!

Orientation

August 19, 1986 was the "big day" for over 340 new students admitted to Meredith College for the fall semester of 1986. As the overloaded cars came up the front drive in front of Johnson Hall, each newcomer was greeted by friendly faces and by hundreds of balloons lining the pathway.

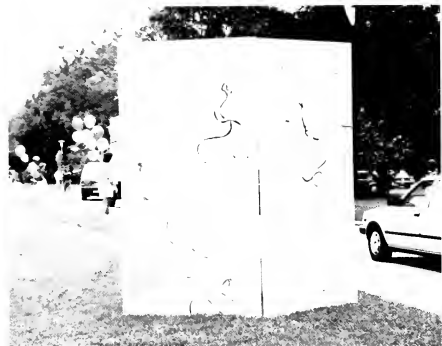

After unpacking and meeting roommates, each student and her family was encouraged to attend a welcome ceremony, provided by the staff and administration.

Next, each anxious, new student was whisked off to meet with her academic and student advisors. Then, a reception was held in the courtyard, where goodbyes were said to parents and family.

The Meredith Associations were very helpful as they created fun and excitement for each newcomer. They put on a skit, based on "The Wizard of Oz," to help familiarize everyone with the purpose of each association.

Also offered during orientation were the President's reception, the Gene Cotton concert, a freshman talent show, and many study and leadership seminars. Although it was a hectic week, it was an exciting time for everyone as many new friendships developed.

Cornhuskin'

Freshmen Cornhuskin' 1986 was based on "The Big Chill." "In a cold world you need your friends to keep you warm" . . . That was how the motto read. The freshman class of 1990 was not exactly sure what Cornhuskin' was all about until they experienced the rollings of the courtyard, the hall stampedes, and the water fights. Then, as the events on the official Cornhuskin' day got underway, they quickly gave in to the overwhelming excitement. The events started with each class parading into the courtyard, each classman wearing her Cornhuskin' sweatshirt depicting the class theme. Next, came a huge picnic in the courtyard. Later that night, the events moved to Jones Auditorium, where a selected group recited the Hog Callin', followed by the tall-tale and the theme song events. Next came the cornshuckin' and the apple bobbin'. The night proved to be a success. Freshman participation was great, and they even won in a couple of categories. However, they placed fourth in the overall competition.

Surely no one will forget the excitement and the good sportsmanship that contributed to making this traditional Meredith competition one of a kind.

Freshmen

It was definitely a big adjustmet from high school to college for the new freshman. In high school, it only took a few hours to have all of the work completed, whereas in college, it took almost every spare minute of her time to complete her assignments. Somehow, she began to see that her study habits must change!

There was also a big difference between the responsibilities she had at home. Mom had always been there to wake her up and to make sure she got to class on time. After getting out of bed, she had to learn to budget her time carefully. She learned that studying came first and "fun" came later.

Freshmen quickly became more independent when each received a checking account and learned to spread the money as far as possible. After the first couple of weeks, she learned that she couldn't order out for pizza every night or go to Steve's very often. One of the biggest temptations was quickly discovered to be going to the mall, where she could easily blow all of her money in one day!

Each freshman also had to learn to cope without cars, because of the incapacity to park all of the students' cars on campus. She was faced with few options: walk, ride a bike, take a cab, take a bus, or stay at school and study.

The first semester, each freshman had to face the curfew policy, which was one a.m. on week nights and two a.m. on weekends. For most, though, these curfews were later than the ones placed on them in high school. And, most freshmen made it in plenty of time without having to be penalized.

One of the most exciting aspects of coming to college was the opportunity to live on her own. It provided her with meeting many new people, but it also challenged her to get along with all of these girls, living so close together. Each just had to remember that everyone was here for the same reason: to learn together and to have fun together.

Cornhuskin'

This year the sophomores were a bit more comfortable with Cornhuskin' than last. They proved themselves by receiving third place in the competition — an improvement over last November. The freshmen had a run for their money. The sophomores were ready and waiting for those late-night water fights and early-morning clangings and bangings. Yes, they proved themselves worthy. It's now time to sit back and see what the juniors have in store for us next year.

Big Sisters

A special bond exists between big sis and lil sis classes. This tie is especially strong between the senior and sophomore classes. The classes are in their second and final year of being sisters. Much has been shared between the two. As freshmen, they were there for us as a shoulder to cry on or a friend with which to play. As time passed, we had bon fires submarine parties, picnics, and serenades. We'll miss you seniors!

JUNIOR CLASSES

Juniors (joon' yerz) pl. n. — Approximately three-hundred and sixty-six young women with 60-89 credit hours, brought together at Meredith College. 2. Those who have already experienced the Freshman Fright and Sophomore Slump, eager and waiting to usher in their last year — but not too eager to rush through their third year as Angels. 3. Those students who enjoy and experience every moment to the fullest at college because they know how far they have come and how short the collegiate road is ahead. 4. The students who are more learned than Freshmen and more modest about it than Sophomores — the more they learn, the more juniors realize there is yet to learn.

They are first-time big sisters, lending their ears, their helping hands, and their precious time to their brand new little sisters. They are those who, for the first time, proudly display a band of shiny gold or silver supporting a black oval, imprinted with the Meredith seal, on their fingers. Their cars are no longer towed or booted for lack of a permanent parking sticker, and most of their rooms are cooled by air conditioning.

The juniors are approximately three-hundred and sixty-six individual young women with different personalities and goals, who have been brought together by class rank but stay together and work together as a team. They are the class of 1988.

class officers

What would a junior class do without officers like these? From day one, in mid-August, Adrienne, Christy, Debbie, Michele, and Leigh Ann, and a host of other student leaders worked to make the junior class a team — a team that worked together. Only by getting into the picture themselves did our class officers motivate us to be involved — involved in fundraisers, the Junior/Senior Formal, being dedicated big sisters, intramurals, and Cornhuskin'. Their energy and class spirit kept us moving ahead. They could turn anything into a fun experience — even having their pictures made. Yes, our class officers were the significant force behind the enthusiasm and togetherness of the junior class. Pictured below are Christy Soles, Debbie Parrott, Adrienne Gore, Michele Lenhart, and Leigh Ann Gossett as they take time off from their busy schedules to enjoy a splash in the fountain.

LOVE MY little sis

Having a little sister is one of my favorite Meredith traditions. It offers freshmen a helping hand in adjusting to the many changes and temptations that college brings, while we have the chance to make some lasting friendships. The first activity of the year was a get-acquainted banana split party on the island, where I learned of my little sisters' complaints about registration, English 111, and the cafeteria food. I was also bombarded with questions about which fraternity was best and how many call downs were allowed each semester. Our next activity was a bonfire and marshmallow roast. The evening ended with singing around the fire and a few tears between friends. Cornhuskin' was especially enjoyable this year. The big sis/little sister classes were very supportive of each other and allowed Cornhuskin' week to be a fun time for everyone rather than a head-to-head competition.

Having two little sisters has given me the opportunity to give a little friendly advice and learn something about the changing trends since my freshman year. Knowing that there's someone to count on with big sis/little sister bonds is just another reason that Meredith tradition remains so strong and important to us all.

Remember the days of always having to drive down to the gravel pit to park your car, and coming back the next day to find your car covered with dirt? Remember the days of parking in the pasture and trudging through mud and high grass to get back to main campus? Remember the days of having no car on campus at all? Well no more! Finally, having obtained upperclass status, we are legally allowed to have cars on campus. Not only that, but we are allowed to park our cars on the paved lots within easy walking distance to the dorms. This is one of the luxuries, along with living in dorms with air-conditioning, that we enjoyed as juniors.

making music

Who says the junior class can't carry a tune? Well no one is saying that this year — not after Cornhuskin'. This year the junior class proudly sang their way through tunes to "It's a Small World," "When You Wish Upon a Star," and climaxed in "Let There be Peace on Earth." This clinched a well-earned first place in song competition for the class of '88. The juniors have definitely come a long way since their first year at Meredith!

The juniors also displayed their singing talents through "The Bathtub Ring," a singing group that was composed this year solely of — you guessed it — juniors! The Bathtub Ring, sponsored by the Philetarian society, is made up each year by the even-numbered classes.

The junior class could never have uncovered their musical talents had they not come together and worked together as a team, setting aside valuable time to practice each night before Cornhuskin'. It definitely paid off Cornhuskin' 'night. So how about it, juniors — will next year be an encore performance?

the crook

The crook, the crook, where is the crook? The seniors hid the wooden crook this year, as usual, leaving the juniors challenged to discover its location using only poetic clues posted in the cafeteria. The clues led from one side of campus to the other, but junior efforts turned up empty when we tried to discover the actual hiding place at the fence near the back campus gate. Due to confusion over the finder of the crook, the seniors had to display the rainbow colored ribbon of their class as well as the black ribbon that indicates that the crook had been found. They tied both ribbons to the top of the crook and carried it with them into the Class Day ceremonies as tradition requires.

This traditional game has been played every year by the juniors and seniors since 1929. The juniors will have the chance to play the game from the hiding point of view next year. Wonder where we'll hide it?

What's So Great About Meredith College?

Inquiring Minds Want to Know!

Why The Class of '87 Chose Meredith.

During our four years at Meredith College, we've all been asked hundreds of times — Why did you decide to go to Meredith? We've all heard questions such as "Why do you want to go to a 'girls' school?" "Isn't it like a convent over there?," and "How can you stand living with a bunch of girls?". Most of us put up with these questions because we know why we came here — Carlissa Oaklissa Oakley admired the closeness of dorm life and the individual attention she received from her professors. Audrey Kerr was impressed with Meredith's fine reputation. Lisa Holmes and Judy Wilson came to Meredith because of the well respected music department. Nancy Hillman liked Meredith's geographical location and the beautiful campus, while Donna Wilson carried on a family tradition, since her mother and four aunts had attended Meredith. No matter what the reasons were for coming to Meredith, we found out just how special Meredith College really is.

The Beginning Of Our Rainbow Memories From Our First Year at MC

Apprehensive, excited, scared . . . All of us felt a mixture of emotion as we drove down the balloon-arched drive of Meredith College on a hot, August day. Saying good bye to family and friends as we began our freshman year was something we all had to go through. This was a part of life. We all remember the adjustment period we went through which included learning to get along with roommates, learning to study, and learning the quickest route to Zock's. Our conversations included fraternity parties, Freshman English and curfew. It was also the year for our first Cornhuskin', the performance of Alice in Wonderland and the "Police" concert many of us stood in line to get tickets for. In addition, Marion Driver looks back on the first time she met Tim, who is now her fiancé; Nan Henry can remember trying to stamp out alcohol with SGA's "Stamp it Out" campaign. An embarrassing moment for Mary Scott Edmundson occurred during Cornhuskin' when she ran into a group of guys who were standing between Vann and Stringfield, knocking over a trash can filled with water all over them. Carey Bunting recalls a time when Martha Register received a visit from three males from Chapel Hill — they went straight up to her room on third Vann. Jill Hensdale remembers a time she and twelve other girls rode back in one car from Chapel Hill, hurrying to make curfew.

Our freshman year was only the first taste of what college life was going to be.

A Day in the Life

Dear Diary, I am so excited. I met the most awesome guy tonight — you should see what he drives . . . Dear Diary, you're not going to believe this, but I made a B in Computer Science. I guess all those late nights in Harris really paid off! . . . Dear Diary, I am in love!! I know this is the one — his name is Greg . . . Dear Diary, this year is going so well! I love my hallmates . . . Dear Diary, I am so depressed — Organic Chemistry is just too hard . . . Dear Diary, this week has certainly been an eventful — I broke up with my boyfriend of five years, I got food-poisoning from the tuna-fish in the cafeteria, my best friend eloped, and I celebrated (Ha!) my 20th birthday . . . Dear Diary, it snowed here, and everything was so beautiful . . . Dear Diary, Kimberly Harris and I were on the front of the "Raleigh News and Observer" — a photograph of us playing out in the snow . . . Dear Diary, I just got through waiting in line 8 hrs. for Bruce Springsteen tickets for half my hall . . . Dear Diary, the cutest Sig Ep from Carolina brought me twelve carnations and drew a flour heart in the courtyard — for no reason! . . . Dear Diary, we all drank champagne out of shoes at the dance; we really had a wonderful time . . .

One Step Closer Junior Year for The Class of '87

By the time our junior year rolled around, we had chosen our majors, decided not to transfer and settled into college life. This was also the year that we received little sisters and ordered class rings. Although our junior year was one of the most academically challenging years, we still managed to create some memorable moments. Dawn Pickett remembers her spring break in Bermuda, and Amy Hudson can tell tales about the Junior-Senior dance. Jennifer Drinard enjoyed the responsibility of being a Student Advisor, while Linda Manning remembers the debut of the luminaries during the Christmas Season. Cathy Anheir's fall semester at Marymount College in Manhattan, New York will always be memorable for her, and a guy Allison Godwin met while midnight bowling turned out to be her fiancé. Towards the end of our junior year, we all began to realize that there would only be more decisions to make before our final year.

It's About Time! The Class of 1987 Graduates

As the members of the new senior class moved into Barefoot and Heilman exclamations such as "This is it" and "We're finally seniors" could be heard. On the first day of class we donned our caps and gowns and proudly marched into Jones Auditorium for Founders Day. Cornhuskin' held great excitement for us all as we triumphed over the underclassmen — "Three cheers for the senior class . . ." As the second semester began most of us realized that soon we would be out in the "real world." Future teachers worked in the classroom, many did internships, applied to graduate school, and interviews were abound. Engagements and marriages were at the top of the conversation lists and end of the year celebrations brought everyone out on the town. Both tears and laughter filled Class Day. The class historians reminded us of such events as the tuna fish food-poisoning and the visit by Jimmy Carter. Graduation was the culmination of our four years. Each of us will hold precious memories of people, places, and events that filled our years here at Meredith. What will we be doing five, ten years from now? No one really knows — guess we will have to come back to our class reunions to find out!!! Good Luck Class of '87

Who's Who Members

The candidates for Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges are nominated from the senior class each year by faculty. To be eligible students must have a 2.5 grade point average or better. The nominations of students with this average are then made based on the following criteria: (1) scholastic achievement, (2) participation and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities, (3) citizenship and service to the college, (4) potential for future achievement.

The Student Life Committee at Meredith approves the final nominees and submits their names to Who's Who. The final list consists of thirty students or less whose names are automatically printed by Who's Who in book form.

The chosen seniors receive certificates on Awards Day honoring their achievements.

...OF 1987

Outstanding Seniors

The outstanding seniors are nominated and chosen each year by members of their class. This year there was a ballot sent out to each member of the class of 1987 on which she could nominate those seniors she thought deserving of the title outstanding. A senior could choose anyone except those students already elected to Who's Who.

From the nominated seniors, the ten with the most votes for outstanding achievement were chosen. These ten women received certificates honoring their special status on Awards Day.

Outstanding Seniors: (Back row) — Julio McKeithan, Lucy Henry, Beth Kennedy, Mary Scott Edmundson, Aileen Jenkins, Dorcas Hostetler, (Front Row) — Carmel Swanson, Sharon Moriarty, Stephano Gay, and Jeanne Coleman

Time For Spring!

Top: Cancun is the place for Spring Break, according to the Meredith group that went this year Above: Sunbathing is Meredith's most competitive sport Right: "Getting away from it all" after graduation

Above: Choices have to be made about summer jobs, summer school or graduate studies and future career possibilities. Left: Pre-registration for fall classes can be so much trouble in the spring. Left: Some students plan their weddings for the spring.

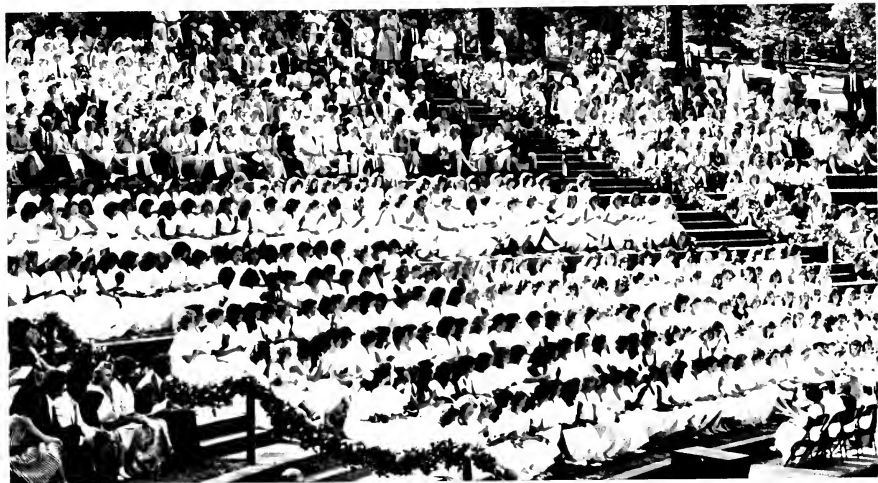

Class Day 1987

Class Day at Meredith is always a special time for seniors and their little sisters. This year was no exception. The weather was beautiful which was a change from when the seniors got wet carrying the Daisy Chain for the Class of '85.

Another positive aspect of the ceremony this year was the number of sophomores that stayed on campus to honor their big sisters. They arose early on Saturday to meet in the yard beside the Alumnae House and to construct the giant chain of flowers and ivy.

The seniors wore black gloves to Class Day this year because of the odd classes' tradition of doing so.

At the ceremonies, the senior class officers discussed past events that happened while the class was at Meredith, made the dedication of the class gift, and gave little sisters wish bones to help them have as nice a Class Day when they are seniors.

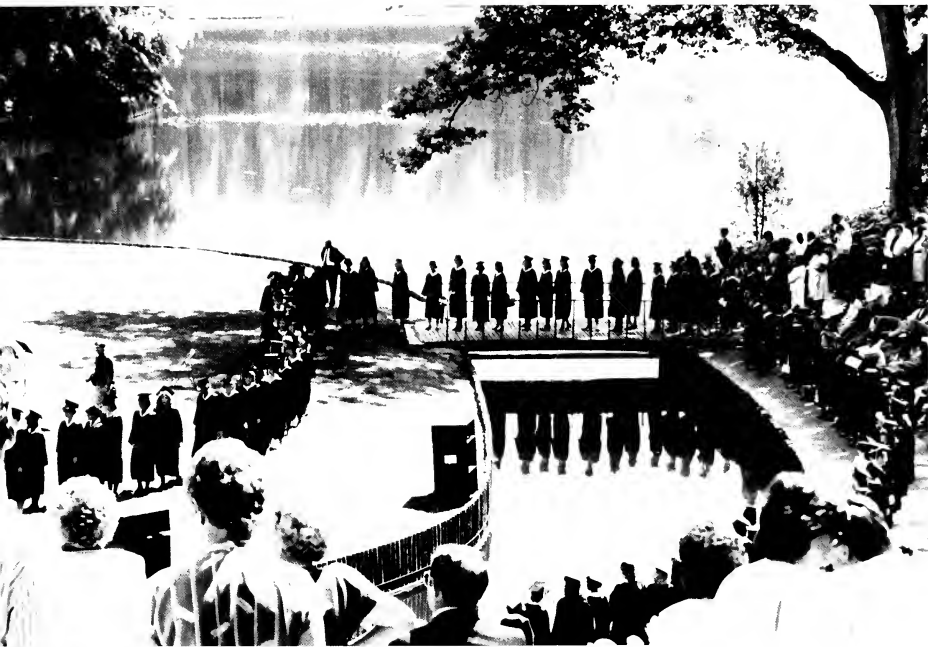

Graduation

The graduation ceremonies this year had beautifully sunny weather. The sun was warm, and got hot shining on the black robes in the amphitheater.

Dr. Bruce Heilman was the 1987 speaker for graduation. Dr. Heilman was a past president of Meredith as now serves as chancellor of the University of Richmond. He spoke to seniors on "Making the Most of Yourselves" to aid them in their decisions for the future. The graduate class representative, Susan Heisley Powers and the senior class president, Carmel Swanson, addressed farewell remarks to the graduates after they received their diplomas.

Including the graduate school students, this was the largest graduating class at Meredith ever!

Editor's Note

It's 2:00 am, June 11. Do you know where your yearbook is? It is spread out in a million different piles all over 1st Potent parlor. This is how the book and the year have come to a close — piece by piece. The different pieces of the Oak Leaves have been brought together by people who gave of their time to reach a common goal — publication of our 1987 annual.

Time has not always been on the staff's side, however. Our original plans may have changed some and we might have done some things differently under other circumstances. But we set out to record this year at Meredith, and we did it! Timing was crucial for us to be able to show you Jimmy Carter on campus, snow days last winter, the stages of the art building's completion, and even Dean Burriss on roller skates. It's all here for present students to enjoy and, for those of us who are leaving, it will be here to remind us that in the 1986-87 academic year, the timing was right for everything!

Sincerely,

Carolyn Hill
1987 Oak Leaves Editor

Special thanks: I would like to thank Jeanne for guidance and support and MEM and Beth for their help. Thank you Chandy for keeping me working and for making time for me. To Beth and Martha go thanks for their dedication. Thank you Robert for taking pictures and Dad for advice. I would especially like to thank my mother for listening, helping, and for staying behind me all the way.

Colophon:

Volume 84 of the Oak Leaves was printed by Hunter Publishing Company.
The cover was designed by Carolyn Hill.
The Oak Leaves contains 15 pages of 4-color with the total amount of pages of 216.
Class portraits and some candid photos were taken by Jim Logue of Yearbook Associates.
Typestyles used were Helvetica (juniors) Optima (freshmen) and Metrolite overall.
The Oak Leaves was prepared by an all volunteer staff.

Time For Goodbye
